Introduction

Fisher Roulette is an old-time strategy developed by Samuel Fisher sometime before 1920.

It is an excellent winning system. Its greatest claim to fame is its win rate. Handled correctly you never need lose using the Fisher Roulette Strategy.

However, there are several drawbacks to the original Fisher Roulette System:

1. Bets can become very complicated after a series of wins and losses without winning a coup. An example of this occurs on spin 121 as shown in the original Fisher Roulette Manual. After losing spin 118, the player is faced with the following amount from which to construct his next bet: 3 3 6 12 12 12. The amount shown for this wager using Fisher Roulette II is 50. You will notice that 50 is much easier to interpret than the formula numbers used by the original Fisher Formula.
2. A losing series can last a long time. Referring again to the plays shown in the original Fisher Roulette System manual on page 119, it takes from spin number 112 through spin number 124 to win one coup. Playing against the same decisions, Fisher Roulette II hits a coup on spin number 121, three bets sooner than the original system.
3. Not only can bets become complicated, but they can also become very large using the original Fisher Strategy. Looking at the plays shown in the Fisher Roulette original manual, on spin 59 shown on page 107 we are required to wager $576. Using Fisher Roulette II our bet against the same decision would have been just $3. While bets can become large using Fisher Roulette II, they are much easier to handle than with the original Fisher Strategy.

The focus of this manual is on a new betting strategy for Fisher Roulette, called Fisher Roulette II. It builds on the original strategy and you should read and learn the Fisher Roulette Strategy as discussed in the original manual before you read this manual.

Once you understand the original Fisher Roulette Strategy, you will have the background to read this manual and discover a safer and easier way to win using the original Fisher Roulette Strategy!

Original Fisher Versus Fisher Roulette II

Fisher Roulette II has a number of advantages over the original Fisher Roulette Strategy.

The following table shows 500 spins of roulette showing the decision for each spin (R = red, B = black, G = green which is 0 or 00), whether the wager won or lost (W/L, where W = win and L = a loss), Coup Wins and the Cumulative Amount Won after each spin. To simplify this comparison we are not showing the formula used to determine the size of each bet. Instead we show just the final bet so at this point we can concentrate on bets and results.

This table is set up as follows:

Spin. Shows the decision number. Notice that we don't bet on the very first decision, merely observing it to determine where to place the next bet.

Dec. The outcome of the decision – Red or Black or a Zero.

W/L. The results of our bet – win or loss.

Original Fisher Strategy:

Bet. Amount wagered.

Coup Won. Keeps track of winning coups.

Cum Win. The cumulative win after each round of play.

Fisher Roulette II:

Bet. The amount of each bet.

Coup Won. The number of the coup completed.

Cum Win. The cumulative amount won or lost.

Let's compare the differences in outcomes of the original Fisher Roulette Strategy with Fisher Roulette II before we get into the mechanics of how the strategies differ.

Looking at Table 1 you will notice that we won $384 using the original system and $466 using Fisher Roulette II. You may also notice that we won more coups using Fisher

Roulette II. With Fisher Roulette II we won 146 coups compared with 128 won using the original Fisher System.

You will notice a big difference in the amounts bet on spin 50. We wagered $12 with the original system and $100 with Fisher Roulette II. After winning this spin, our winnings hit +9 with the original method and +46 with Fisher Roulette II.

While the $100 wager on spin 50 may seem large, look what happens in the next few spins.

By spin 59 we had to wager $576 with the original Fisher Strategy and only $3 with Fisher Roulette II. At this point the largest bet made using the original Fisher Strategy is $576 while the largest wager made using Fisher Roulette II is $100.

On spins 60 through 71 both strategies make the same wagers. However, on spin 72 we see a difference as original Fisher wagers $9 and Fisher Roulette II bets $25. After this spin original Fisher's winnings stand at +36 while Fisher Roulette II hits +57.

On spins 74 through 100 both strategies make the same bets. On spin 101 the original Fisher Strategy makes a wager of $12 while Fisher Roulette II bets $25. After spin 101 Fisher Roulette II continues to gain over the original Fisher, as the original strategy's winnings of +54 are much smaller than Fisher Roulette II's win of $97.

At this point I haven't showed you how each wager was determined or why the original Fisher Strategy and Fisher Roulette II sometimes share the same bet and at other times go their separate ways.

Hang on. All will become clear in the next chapter.

Fisher Roulette II Strategy

The original Fisher Strategy is explained in the Fisher Strategy manual. If you are unclear on how to use the original strategy, you should refer to the Fisher Strategy manual.

Fisher Roulette II is a strategy designed to simplify and improve the original Fisher Strategy. Fisher Roulette II's rules are simple:

When the original Fisher Strategy calls for a bet equal to or greater than the Bridge Bet it is a signal to change from using the original strategy to using Fisher Roulette II.

The size of the Bridge Bet depends on the level of play. For example, $10 Base Bets will use a higher Bridge Bet than $3 Base Bets. The Bridge Bet is computed by adding all of the numbers in the register (Formula box) after a spin. Whether the total of these numbers is equal to or greater than the amount of the Bridge Bet set for each level of play, we will start using Fisher Roulette II betting on the next round of play.

Using $3 Base Bets, the size of the Bridge Bet is $20. Whenever the amounts in the register total $20 or more, instead of making the wager called for by the original strategy you will start a five stage Martingale Series. The series used for $3 bets consists of these bets:

Table 2 shows the same 500 spins shown in the last chapter. However, this time we will show you how the bets were computed using both strategies.

The first three columns show the Spin Number, the Decision (Red, Black or Zero) and the outcome of our bet (W/L stands for Win or Loss).

The group of columns under the heading "Original Fisher" show the amount wagered (Bet), the Formula used to determine the size of the bet, Coup Wins (completion of a betting series with a win), and the Cumulative Amount won using the betting system.

The same columns are repeated for the Fisher Roulette II strategy so that we have complete information on the amount bet, the formula used to determine the bet, coups won and the cumulative win using each system.

Explanation of Table 2:

Fisher Roulette II uses the same betting strategy as the original Fisher Strategy until the total of the amounts in the bet registry (formula box) is equal to or greater than the Bridge Bet. Each level of betting has a different size Bridge Bet. For instance, the Bridge Bet for $3 Base Betting, as shown in Table 2 is $20.

Here's an example of how we compute the amount of a Bridge Bet. Look at Spin 116 in Table 2. The amounts shown in the register are: 3 3 6 12. The total of these amounts is 24. Since 24 is equal to or greater than the Bridge Bet of $20, we will start making Fisher Roulette II wagers in the next round.

Looking at Table 2, the bets and outcomes for each system are identical until Spin 47. On Spin 48, Fisher Roulette II sets up a Martingale progression of 25 50 100 200 400. Fisher Roulette II will continue this progression until there is one win. With a Martingale win, Fisher Roulette II will complete a coup.

The total of these amounts is $24. Since $24 is larger than our Bridge Bet of $20, we change to Fisher Roulette II betting on the next spin.

On Spin 48, Fisher Roulette II sets up a Martingale progression of 25 50 100 200 400. Fisher Roulette II will continue this progression until there is one win. With a Martingale win, Fisher Roulette II will complete a coup. We lose the Fisher Roulette II bet of $25.

On Spin 49, Fisher Roulette II wagers $50 and loses.

On Spin 50, Fisher Roulette II wagers $100 and wins. Any Martingale Win is considered to be a Coup Win so we write down the winning coup number of 15 for Fisher Roulette II for Spin 50.

After Spin 50, original Fisher has a win of +9 while Fisher II's win is +46.

The original Fisher Strategy doesn't complete a coup win until Spin 59. In order to win the coup, a wager of $576 was made on Spin 59.

While the original Fisher Strategy had to deal with larger and more complex bets on Spins 50 through 59, Fisher II's bets were small and easy to compute.

144 144 288 576.

The largest wager made by Fisher Roulette II was $100.

By Spin 59, the Fisher Strategy showed a Cumulative Win of +45, while Fisher II's win was +47. This is the last time that winnings from the original strategy are even close to Fisher II's wins. From Spin 59 on, Fisher II's wins continue to grow larger than the original strategy.

On Spins 61 through 71 both strategies use the same formula and make the same wagers.

On Spin 71 we see the following amounts in the formula: 3 3 3 9 9. These bets total 27, larger than the Bridge Bet of $20. Therefore, on Spin 72 Fisher Roulette II sets up a Martingale, starting with a wager of $25.

Fisher II's $25 bet made on Spin 72 wins, completing a coup for Fisher II.

On Spins 74 through 100, both strategies use the same formula and make the same bets.

The pattern of Fisher Roulette II changing its betting formula once the amount of a Bridge Bet is reached continues throughout the game.

The largest Fisher Roulette II wager was made on Spin 121 when a wager of $400 was made and won.

By Spin 500, the original Fisher Strategy had a win of $384, while Fisher II's win was $466, which is 21% higher.

The advantages of using Fisher Roulette II whenever the amount of a Bridge Bet is reached should be obvious:

1. Fisher Roulette II has bets that are easy to track while the original strategy's bets may become more and more complicated.
2. Fisher Roulette II uses a lower bankroll than the original Fisher Strategy.
3. Fisher Roulette II has a higher win rate than the original Fisher Strategy.
4. Fisher Roulette II uses the Martingale Series in its most effective form – as a betting series to be used infrequently and only under certain predefined conditions.

Table 3 shows the Fisher Roulette II Bets without including original Fisher information. This is the format you will use to record your play using the Fisher Roulette II strategy.

Comparison of the Original Fisher Strategy and Fisher II

While Fisher Roulette II shares the same bets as the original Fisher Strategy most of the time, the few times it departs from the original strategy has a major impact on the results.

In the 500 spin run which we reviewed in the previous chapter, the original strategy won 128 coups with total winnings of $384.

Fisher Roulette II won a total of 146 coups and won $466. These outcomes were for playing with $3 base bets.

$50	146	$7766.70

As you can see, Fisher Roulette II wins more at every level of play than the original strategy.

What's more, these results are accomplished using a lower bankroll than the original strategy.

Note: The bankroll levels shown for the original Fisher Strategy are larger than the amounts shown when the system was first published. The larger amounts are recommended to provide a higher margin of safety.

Unlike other strategies, we don't require that you have a larger Total Bankroll than the amount used for a game or session. Because either version of Fisher can be played continuously without losing, there is no need to have "bankroll in reserve."

However, you will notice that the bankroll requirements for the original Fisher Strategy are higher than Fisher II's across the board.

We recommend that you use a bankroll 50% higher for the original Fisher Strategy than is required for Fisher II.

For example, as a $5 bettor you can play with a total bankroll of $2,000 using Fisher II, while you should have a bankroll of $3,000 for the same level of play with the original Fisher Strategy.

How Much Can You Make Using Fisher II?

The 500 roulette decisions presented in this book are representative of what you can expect when you use either the original Fisher or Fisher Roulette II on a roulette wheel with two zeros. This is the standard American roulette wheel. However, even though we played against a two-zero wheel you should always opt to play against a single-zero wheel when you have the opportunity

It is easy to find casinos online offering European Roulette, which uses single-zero wheels. If you can find games with the en prison rule in effect, so much the better as this reduces the house edge even more.

I chose to play against a double zero wheel because this presents the toughest roulette game you will encounter. My reasoning was that if Fisher can stand up against the toughest version of roulette, it will easily beat the single-zero wheels.

Number of Decisions	500
Coups Completed	128
Total Won with $3 Base Bets	$384
Equivalent Winnings with $1 Base Bets	$128
Winnings per Spin per $1 Wagered ($128/500 =	$0.2560 per decision

Table 9. Summary of Fisher Roulette II Roulette Play for 500 Spins

Number of Decisions	500
Coups Completed	128
Total Won with $3 Base Bets	$466
Equivalent Winnings with $1 Base Bets	$155.33
Winnings per Spin per $1 Wagered
$$155.33/500 =$	$0.3107 per decision

The most important number in the preceding two tables is the Winnings per Spin per $1 Wagered. With the original Fisher Strategy we won an average of $0.2560 per spin per $1 wagered.

With Fisher Roulette II we won an average of $0.3107 per spin per $1 bet.

These amounts are the key amounts in estimating our win rates at different levels of play.

For example, if we are making $5 bets, we can multiply the amount won per $1 wagered and compute the amount we will win making $5 bets.

For the original Fisher we compute: $5 \times $0.2560 = \1.28 per spin.

For Fisher II, we have: $5 \times $0.3107 = \1.5535 per spin.

With this information we can compute our hourly winnings at different levels of play.

For instance, with the original Fisher Strategy, if we play in a land-based game making $5 wagers in a game played at 50 spins per hour, we have: $50 \times $1.28 = \64.00 estimated hourly winnings.

If we do the same type of calculation for Fisher II, we have: $50 \times $1.5535 = \77.68 estimated hourly winnings.

By making these kinds of calculations we can compute our estimated hourly winnings at different speeds and at different levels of play.

Typical land-based games played in the US will run about 50 spins per hour. Thus, as shown in Table 10, a $10 bettor using the original Fisher Strategy will average winning about $128 hour.

Online games are much faster and can easily reach 300 spins per hour. If we take a look at the Original Fisher Strategy's performance as shown in Table 10, we can see that a $10 bettor playing in a game played at 300 spins per hour can expect to win $768 an hour.

Comparing the expected hourly win rates of the Original Fisher Strategy with Fisher Roulette II shows the large increase in hourly winnings which can be achieved using Fisher II. For instance, a $10 bettor playing in a 300 spin per hour game can expect to win $768 an hour using the original strategy.

Using Fisher II, the $10 bettor playing in a 300 spin per hour game can expect to win $932 an hour!

This is an increase in winnings of $164 an hour. We can achieve these kinds of gains in performance using Fisher Roulette II.

Lowering Your Bets With the Fisher Roulette II Strategy

The 500 roulette decisions presented in this book were played against a casino allowing bets ranging from $3 to $750. This is a generous spread and you may not be able to find a casino allowing such a large spread.

This can be a problem if you are called on to make a wager larger than the highest bet allowed or if you lose the highest bet in Fisher II's Martingale Progression and you want to recoup your loss

Spin No	Dec	W/L	Bet	Formula	Coup Won	Cum Win
117	G-0	L	25	25		+67
118	R	L	50	50		+17

These are the spins and wagers as we experienced them. However, we could have lost the bet on spin 121. If we were to continue playing, we would need to make and win a wager of $800 to complete the Martingale series with a win.

With a bet limit of $750 we couldn't make a wager of $800. What we can do instead is break $800 down into four bets of $200 each, shown as 200 200 200 200. After setting up these bets, we would continue play using the original Fisher betting rules.

Table 13 shows how we could have played this if we have lost our $400 wager on Spin 121.

Explanation of Plays In Table 13:

In Table 13 we assume that we lose Spin 121, losing a $400 wager. After the loss we set up four bets of $200 each as: 200 200 200 200.

We bet $200 on Spin 122 and lose. We bet $200 on Spin 123 and win. We cancel the amount of the winning bet leaving 200 200 200 200 after the cancellation.

On spin 124 the first three figures of 200 200 200 total $600. We decide to bet the casino limit of $750 and win. After canceling the amount of the win we are left with 50 in the register.

We lose spins 125 and 126 and add the amounts lost to the register.

If you compare Table 13 and Table 12 you will find that the amount won in Table 13 by spin 127 is the same as the amount won by spin 121 in Table 12. This technique of breaking down larger amounts in the register into smaller amounts is called Split Betting.

You can use this technique anytime your bets become too large. However, once you start using Fisher Roulette II you will find that you will rarely have to use Split Betting to complete a successful winning coup.

Planning a Gambling Excursion

Most people approach casino gambling as a lark, and little consideration is given to the amount of time, money or psychological preparation necessary for winning. Some attention is given to finding a "system" or "gimmick" and off the player goes to try his hand at winning. Needless to say, this approach hardly ever works.

Some work and advance preparation are essential to becoming a consistent winner at roulette or any other casino game.

The advance preparation is fairly easy. First, read and understand both the original Fisher Roulette Strategy and Fisher Roulette II before you start playing.

The easiest way to practice is to play in an online casino in "practice mode" where no money is risked. This will give you a realistic feel for roulette as it is played, whether you play online or in a land-based game. Whichever way you go, practice is essential for two reasons. First, by practicing you will gain a greater understanding of the system than you ever will by just reading about it. Secondly, practicing the system will give you a greater feel for it than I can ever convey by describing it. In practicing this strategy, you will gain a level of confidence in your play which is important before you ever venture forth to take on a casino.

In a casino, your enemy is not the casino or the dealer, it is your own lack of self-control. If you can control yourself and have a mastery of your approach, you will become a winner. If you can't, then it is unlikely that the Fisher Roulette Strategy or the Fisher Roulette Strategy II can make you a winner.

After you have learned and practiced this strategy, you will want to begin planning to apply it in a casino.

Planning begins with determining the size of bankroll you will take for your roulette play. The amount you will take for an excursion to a casino(s) is called your Total Bankroll, and it should be two times the size of bankroll required to play a game. If you decide to play online you can use these same concepts.

It is necessary to use a larger bankroll for a trip to provide for an adequate cushion against any possible losses.

Fisher Roulette II Strategy Base Bets,
Game Bankroll and Total Bankrolls

Base Bet	Game Bankroll	Total Bankroll
10¢	$40	$40
25¢	$100	$100
50¢	$200	$200
$1	$400	$400
$2	$800	$800
$3	$1200	$1200
$5	$2,000	$2,000
$10	$4,000	$4,000
$15	$6,000	$6,000
$25	$10,000	$10,000
$50	$20,000	$20,000
$100	$40,000	$40,000

Using this table, you can plan on the amount of capital you will need for a trip using the Fisher Roulette II Strategy.

Needless to say, this bankroll should come from money that is extra and will not be needed for living expenses. If you take the money needed to pay mother's medical expenses and use it for gambling, the psychological pressure will probably be too much for you, and in general, this is just not a good way to approach any speculative venture.

After building your bankroll and practicing the system until you can perform flawlessly, you may begin your final preparations for a gambling excursion. You should have an adequate number of tracking forms, a notebook for recording the results of your play and a game plan for your trip.

A trip game plan can be very informal consisting of an itinerary with playing time scheduled in a general way. You don't have to have every minute scheduled, but I have found that my mental attitude is improved if I have planned a definite amount of time for gambling as well as for other activities.

If you wish to approach using the Fisher Roulette II Strategy in an extremely organized and professional manner, you may wish to develop a plan to let the system help build your bankroll.

Assume that your bankroll is only $1,000. You are planning a trip to Las Vegas and you find out that the minimum roulette bets accepted are $5 bets.

You check with the table presented a couple of pages ago and see that the bankroll required to use the $5 Base Bets is $2,000. You can see that you don't have a large enough bankroll to play at this level.

You decide that you can grow your bankroll to $2,000 by playing online first and using your winnings to fund your bankroll for play in the land-based games.

Let's try another example. You want to play roulette online making $2 bets. Here you will need a total bankroll of $800 to get started. If you don't have this much or just want to grow your own bankroll, you can find many online casinos accepting smaller bets that will accommodate a smaller bankroll.

Here's a sneaky way to build bankroll instantly! Many online casinos will give you a 100% cash bonus when you make your first deposit. Let's say you only have $400 but would like to be able to play at the $2 betting level, which requires a total bankroll of $800.

Just sign up and deposit $400 with one of the 100% bonus casinos. With the $400 bonus you will have a $800 bankroll.

Now you decide to see how long it will take you to build up your bankroll to the $25 betting level playing online.

You determine that you will start with $2 minimum wagers and estimate that your playing speed will be about 300 spins per hour.

The table presented a couple of pages ago shows that you need a Trip Bankroll of $800 for $2 betting. You decide to sign up with an online casino paying a 100% bonus and let the casino provide you with $400 of your bankroll.

You review Table 11 presented earlier showing Hourly Win Rates by Level of Play and Game Speed. This table shows that making $2 base bets in a game with an average speed of 300 spins per hour, your average hourly winnings will be $186 an hour.

You calculate that at a $186 an hour win rate, you will make $400 in winnings, bringing your bankroll up to $1,200 in 2.15 hours of play. With a $1,200 bankroll you can start making $3 Base Bets and your hourly winnings will be $279 an hour.

Your next step is to see how long you will need to play at the $3 Base Bet level to grow your bankroll to $2,000, the amount needed to make $5 Base Bets.

The answer is about 2.87 hours. In 2.87 hours, on the average, you will win an additional $800, bringing your bankroll up to $2,000, the level needed to make $5 Base Bets.

In another 2.15 hours of $10 betting, you will qualify for $15 Base Bets.

And, in just 2.86 hours of $15 betting you will have a bankroll of $10,000, the amount needed to qualify as $25 bettor.

You probably won't be able to wager much larger amounts online, so we will stop at this level.

Considering that the average return for a $25 Base Bettor, playing online at 300 spins per hour is $2,330, there is not a whole lot not to like about playing at this level.

A Step-by-Step Plan to Build Your Bankroll

The previous table shows that we can start with total capital of just $400, and in 14.32 hours of online play build a bankroll of $10,000, which is enough to move up to $25 bets using the Fisher Roulette II Strategy.

The first row in the table shows that we start with $400 to which the casino adds $400 as a bonus. This gives us a total bankroll of $800. Playing at the $2 unit bet level, we average winning $186 an hour in a game played at 300 spins per hour. At this win rate in just 2.15 hours, we win $400 bringing our total bankroll up to $1,200. This is the bankroll needed to make $3 Base Bets.

The next row of the table recaps what happens once we move up to the $5 Base Betting level. We start with $1,200, which we grew from our original investment of just $400. Making $3 Base Bets, we average making $279 an hour and in 2.87 hours we will have increased our bankroll from $1,200 to $2,000, the level needed for $5 betting.

Continuing in the same fashion, it takes us 4.29 hours to move from $5 to $10 betting, another 2.15 hours to move from $10 to $15 Base Bets, and finally, just 2.86 hours of play to reach our goal of having the $10,000 bankroll needed for $25 Base Bets.

It has taken us just 14.32 hours from start to finish to move from making $2 to $25 bets online.

You can easily accomplish this in a few days. The critical concept here is that even if you currently don't have the bankroll to play at higher levels, you can quickly move your level of play up using your winnings.

Regardless of whether you play online or in a land-based casino, it is important that you are prepared, confident that you have mastered Fisher Roulette II, determined a plan of action, brought the materials with you which you will need, planned the correct bankroll and developed a playing schedule for your trip.

You should always come to the roulette table confident about yourself and your game plan. Although you will undoubtedly enjoy the edge you have over other players, make sure that your enjoyment never interferes with your plan to win at the wheel of fortunes.

Follow this approach. You will become one tough player and a consistent winner.

GOOD LUCK!

Summary of Fisher Roulette II

Fisher Roulette II builds on the original Fisher Roulette Strategy. To use Fisher Roulette II you will use the original Fisher Roulette's betting system until the total of the bets in the Betting Formula are equal to or greater than a Bridge Bet.

The Bridge Bet consists of an amount large enough that if the total of the amounts shown in the Formula area for the original Fisher Roulette Strategy hits or exceeds the amount of the Bridge Bet, you will start using Fisher Roulette II betting on the next spin.

Fisher Roulette II's betting system consists of making a five stage Martingale, where one winning bet will complete the coup.

Each level of betting has its own Bridge Bet level and Martingale Series. In the examples used in this book, we have used $3 Base Bets with a $20 Bridge Bet and the following Martingale Series: 25 50 100 200 400.

Let's assume that after losing a bet the bets shown in the register (the formula area) consist of 3 3 6 12. These bets total 24, larger than the Bridge Bet for this level of play of 20. Therefore on the next round of play we will start at Martingale Series with a wager of $25.

Table 15 summarizes the Base Bets, Game Bankrolls, Bridge Bets and Martingale Series for Base Bets Ranging from $1 to $100.

Fisher Roulette II Tracker

You can print the blank playing form on the next page and use it to track your roulette play. This is the same form I have used in the examples presented in this book and you may want to use the same notation I used to track your play.
